

Global Experts Convene for International Meeting on Relational Sustainability

From 18th-20th October, leading experts, scholars, and change-makers from around the world will gather in Castel Gandolfo, Italy and Cordoba, Argentina, for the highly anticipated International Meeting on Relational Sustainability. This groundbreaking conference will foster global dialogue on sustainable solutions for today's pressing challenges, emphasizing a holistic approach that integrates personal, environmental, social, and economic dimensions.

The concept of Relational Sustainability highlights the deep interconnections between individuals, society, and nature. It calls for fostering meaningful relationships at every level to promote a just, resilient, and sustainable world. The conference will explore critical global issues such as climate change, resource depletion, and social inequality, while discussing how human and natural sciences can contribute to a more sustainable future.

Conference Highlights:

- Discussions on Integral Ecology, Environmental Ethics, and Sustainable Development
- Exploration of technological solutions for ecological issues and sustainable urban planning
- The role of education in building a culture of sustainability

Participants will have the opportunity to engage in keynote speeches, workshops, roundtable discussions, and poster presentations. This event is organized by New Humanity in collaboration with global initiatives such as EcoOne, SocialOne, and the Economy of Communion. It represents the commitment of the Focolare Movement to fostering unity and meaningful dialogue across disciplines.

The conference will feature a mix of in-person and teleconference sessions across the two venues, encouraging dynamic exchanges between experts from different parts of the world.

Themes to be discussed include:

- Circular Economy and Happy Degrowth
- Ecosystems and Environmental Research
- Health and Environment
- Energy Transition and Sustainable Food Production
- The environmental challenges faced by Latin America and the Caribbean

Government representatives, businesses, non-profit organizations, and concerned individuals will join in this important conversation. Together, attendees will envision sustainable practices that honour both people and the planet, laying the foundation for a prosperous future.

The International Meeting on Relational Sustainability promises to inspire innovative solutions and collaborations that can shape the future of global sustainability efforts.
